PORCH SHADES

Are Among the Things One Needs
Very Much if One Needs Them.
At All—VUDORIZE

But if they are not good, strong, effective shoes, they had better not be bought at all. Many that look well at first are mere snares; they soon grow dingy and drop to pieces.

Good porch shades are different—not cheap, they prove themselves the best investment in the end; for they always look well, work easily and satisfactorily fulfill their functions of keeping out light and sound, admitting air, and giving privacy to the porch.

Vudor Porch Shades are to be had in Clarksburg only at Parsons-Souders. In plain, dark rich green; mottled olive; and mottled olive and brown.

MR. TARLETON WILL SUCCEED H. H. WATSON

Fairmont Man to Be Manager of the West Virginia Division.

FAIRMONT, April 17.—Effective May 1, 1916, Calvin H. Tarleton is appointed manager of the West Virginia division, address Fairmont, W. Va. vice Harry H. Watson, resigned.

F. R. LYON, General Manager of Operations.

Approved: GEORGE T. WATSON, Vice-President.

The above announcement has been authorized by Frank R. Lyon, general manager of operations of the Consolidation Coal Company.

While the retirement of Harry H. Watson from the management of the

TRANSPORTATION IS BIG PROBLEM TROUBLING PURSUERS OF MEXICAN BANDITS

Section of auto truck train No. 2 arriving at Boca Grande camp of the expeditionary force in Mexico.

Transportation is the keynote and kernel of the American expedition in Mexico, and military authorities admit it is the biggest and most serious problem of the chase after Villa. At present the expedition is using on its line of communication about two hundred wagons and sixty motor trucks. Because of the lack of forage these conveyances are engaged largely in bringing in grain and hay for the horses.

West Virginia division will come as a surprise to many of his friends, those closely associated with him in the business have known for some time that this was his intention. Mr. Watson expected to retire January 1, last, from the position he so successfully managed for the last five years, but agreed to remain a few months longer upon the request of the general operating officials of the company.

His successor, Calvin H. Tarleton, is not a stranger to the people of the upper Monongahela valley. His rising career has been a most interesting one, and might appropriately be termed "From Mule Driver to Manager," for when a boy twenty-eight years ago, Cal Tarleton became a mule driver and in a short time was a skillful coal miner, at which occupation he served for several years, when the opportunity came for him to take the position of fire boss at Gaston Mine, near Fairmont. It was only a short time until he was appointed assistant mine foreman of that mine and about a year later became its mine foreman. In 1903, he was appointed the general mine foreman of New England and Gaston mines, serving in that capacity with George T. Watson, who was superintendent of those mines from 1901 to 1906. In 1906 Mr. Tarleton was advanced to the position of division mine inspector and a short time later was made chief mine inspector of all mines in West Virginia division, and in 1909 was promoted to superintendent of mining for the same territory, which position he has held until the present appointment. His many experiences from the beginning of his coal mining career until the present time have admirably fitted him with a direct intimate knowledge of all the mines in this valley. Mr. Tarleton has for years been considered an expert on mine ventilation and sanitary conditions, and has devoted a great deal of his time and direction toward improving safety conditions and arrangements. He is not only personally acquainted with the management of each mine, but with the employees as well, and is held in the highest esteem by them.

It is most gratifying that a local boy has, through his own determination, worked his way through the many steps of preparation to the important position Cal Tarleton has just been appointed to.

It is understood Harry H. Watson's purpose in retiring is to go into private business himself, and it is known that he expects to devote his time to the development of some coal properties of his own. The official family of the Consolidation, while regretting the step Mr. Watson has taken, are delighted that they have a man of Cal Tarleton's ability to step into his shoes.

You Can't Clean Some Refrigerators

You get hot water, and soap and Sapolio, and splash, and rub, and dig at the corners, and work hard and long, but it isn't clean.

The lining is rough, the corners are sharp, the shelf supports are open slots, and the wooden parts are always damp and moldy.

Back in the corners there is dirt. Where the water soaks into the wood there is decay and mold.

In the cracks and crevices of the lining there are "germs"—DANGEROUS germs.

You can clean a LEONARD CLEANABLE in five minutes and it will be clean.

The lining is ALL IN ONE SEAMLESS PIECE of beautiful, shining, glistening, immaculately white PORCELAIN.

Not paint, or iron, or tin, or zinc, or composition, but—Pure white PORCELAIN.

No sharp corners, even. All rounded. No wood, anywhere. Just plain, smooth PORCELAIN, as easy to clean as a china dish.

Do you think there is any doubt about the kind of Refrigerator you want in YOUR home? Could anyone HIRE you to take care of an ordinary Refrigerator when you can buy a LEONARD?

Would you let YOUR family eat food out of the other kinds of a Refrigerator when you can buy a LEONARD and KNOW their food is clean and SAFE?

Come to our store and let us show you in TEN minutes how to save HOURS of needless work, how to save ice and FOOD, and how to PROTECT the health of your family. You will be under no obligation to buy.
